SPECIAL TO THE STATESMAN

Virginia State 1959 graduate Tee Johnson was a winner in a recent contest at the Ford Wonder Rotunda, New York World's Fair. Johnson, employed as a host at the Ford Pavilion, was judged the winner in a contest to name a bird that became a pet of pavilion personnel. The name he suggested is "Robirda", a combination of "Thunderbird and "Rotunda." His prize: a Philco transistor radio in the shape of a Thunderbird car, being presented by Pavilion Manager C Gayle Warnock.

While the band plays on, Ford Pavilion hosts and hostesses turn the tables on New York World's Fair "Music Man" Paul Lavelle and serenade him. Lavelle, director of Cities Service World's Fair Band of America, was given a day in the spotlight to celebrate his birthday. He looks on as (left to right) Ann Werelius, Seattle; Jim McLane, Allen Park, Mich; Sharon Morrissey, Seattle, and Vince Currie, Royal Oak, Mich., provide the musical entertainment. C Gayle Warnock, Ford resident manager, presented Lavelle with a radio encased in a miniature Thunderbird car.

Opening a huge door with apprehension, Ford Pavilion hostess wonders whether the sign means what it says. On the other side lies a Walt Disney-animated scene featuring a family of brontosaurus. "And time" refers to a nearby time tunnel that whisks World's Fair visitors in new Ford-built convertibles ages into prehistory.
